Consultancy expertise of the Department of French

The Department of French has mentored and generated a good number of French language specialists and experts over the course of 45 years, since the establishment of the M.A. French Course.

Our students have been employed successfully in various organizations ranging from universities, multinational companies, manufacturing and research organizations where they provide French language expertise as a service.

The demand for French language specialists and expertise has translated into the ever increasing number of students registering for Masters in French from 1970-71 to 2018-2019.

At the same time, there is a growing need for instructors, tutors, teachers and lecturers in educational institutions to equip the students with foreign language skills to give them an edge over others in the competitive world.

French language experts can be engaged in various industries like

Tourism,

Embassy services,

giant Multinational Companies apart from teaching.

The resources, with fluency in reading writing and speaking the language can be engaged in Translation, Interpretation, Online learning support, Tourism industry and Embassy services.

French language capability is a major requirement these days in multinational companies catering to various types of requirements based on their French speaking client base.

It could range from translation to French invoice processing to transcription of legal documents and industry manuals.

Translators, interpreters, French language support resources for handling front office and back office transactions are in demand in the current international market scenario.
